Hello!

Flexibility and versatility are two qualities I've worked hard to hone over my career. The projects I take on and the clients I work with are a testament to that. From terrestrial broadcasters to design and animation studios, creative, games and events agencies and advertising, I have genuinely embraced the movement between roles and cultures. And because I am accustomed to a hands on approach to content creation, I pride myself on being as agile as possible in order to bring value to the teams and suppliers with whom I work.

I also don't like getting 'stuck,' so I assume that I'm never done learning and that the creative professionals around me all have the possibility of teaching me as much as I have the ability to teach them.

I'm always looking for new partners to tell visual stories with and new ways to tell them.

Kind regards,
